The Diwali run-up. You have timed this well. Diwali itself falls on 8 November, and the weeks before it are when Delhi is at its most festive — Chandni Chowk, INA Market and Connaught Place are lit, decorated and busy with shoppers through late October. Your Old Delhi morning and the market visits fall right in the middle of it.

The two guests staying on. Two of your group arrive on 30 October and stay a further day after the main group flies home on 1 November. Their extra day on 2 November is not part of this quotation. Please ask them to send us what they would like to do that day in advance — we will then arrange the vehicle and guide and quote it separately, so nothing is left to be sorted out at the last minute.
